government forces fired missiles at rebel positions near the Mideast-Syria border town of Azaz, activists said. Fighters from the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) group have launched a large-scale offensive against Aleppo, Syria's second largest city, the Observatory said. The attack, which began on Tuesday and targeted the western side of the city, was part of a coordinated push by multiple rebel groups. It said 25 Syrian army soldiers were killed. If the assault continues, Aleppo could fall before the end of the year, the Observatory said.
